

Making orange juice

Irari, today at snack bar I noticed how you picked up your orange and squeezed it together over the top of your cup, filling up your cup with the juice from the orange. When you finished each piece, you would look into your cup to see if you had enough.

When you realised there wasn't, you chose another piece of orange to squeeze. After a while one of your friends who had been watching you make orange juice also decided to have a go, which was lovely that your knowledge was shared with somebody else too.

My thoughts about your learning...

Irari, it has been wonderful to see you use your previous knowledge and put this into action. I could see you wanted to test out how orange juice was made.

How I see your learning grow...

I wonder if we can use other fruits for juice. Maybe we can try with a juicer machine and see if you like the different flavours.
