

Spring Term Learning Story for Lennie

Dear Lennie,

What a happy, delightful boy you are. You are so settled at nursery and appear to enjoy all that it has to offer. You are an explorer, although you do tend to hold back if you are not sure of something. It takes you a while to get 'stuck in' to an activity, especially if it's a messy one! You tend to watch others have a go first before deciding to have a go. Exploring the clay, you tested it with a finger at first before fully immersing yourself in it, covering your body! You then didn't want to get changed into clean clothes, did you, Lennie?

I always enjoy watching you playing with water. If it's bubbly, you always like to have a taste and laugh when you catch yourself in the mirror. You confidently pour water and fill containers.

Lennie you do like the company of other children, Sophia always sits with you at breakfast and it's lovely that you spend this time together. You are a good eater and now feed yourself. You sleep well at nursery and are always ready for your nap, often gesturing to me to put you to bed!

At group time you know the routine, choosing a song prop and carrying out the actions to songs. You wave along to the hello and goodbye songs, smiling at your friends.

You have a calm attitude, we hardly ever see you get upset or cross, Lennie. You look at books carefully, understanding how to handle them with care. We often snuggle up on the sofa to share a book.

You were so focused on chopping your banana at snack time, pushing down on the 'chopper' When you managed it, you clapped, well done Lennie! I look forward to having more fun with you in the future.

Love from Anna x

What adults will do to support your learning at home and at nursery school:

- Continue to encourage you to 'give things a go'
- Support language development by sharing books and your learning journey with you.
