

Roan's learning story

Roan, you came in today with a big smile and let Mum leave without any tears.

You loved having the job of helping me open and close the gate for the grown-ups coming in and out. It started snowing and you were pointing to the sky and smiling. We were rubbing our arms on our coats and going, "brrr". You found this funny.

Once you'd had enough outside, you took my hand and led me inside to the bookshelf. You were looking for a certain story for me to read to you. We couldn't find it, but you were happy to read 'Handa's Surprise'.

Luca came to join us and we had fun reading the story together. You were both pointing to the different fruits and animals and taking turns to name them. You found it funny when the animals stole each fruit from the basket.

After the story, you knew the next place you wanted to explore and took me to the water tray. You pointed to the sealife box and I told you it was okay to get them out.

You and Luca had so much fun getting the sealife creatures out one-by-one and swishing them in the water. You kept asking me, "What's this?" showing them to me.

It was nice to see you have such a well-settled morning, Roan.
